

International Workshop on Wind Effects on Buildings and Urban Environment

March 10 ~ 12, 2019, Atsugi Campus
Tokyo Polytechnic University

Organized by

Wind Engineering Joint Usage / Research Center
Tokyo Polytechnic University

Co-organized by

Japan Association for Wind Engineering

Supported by

The Society of Heating, Air-Conditioning and Sanitary Engineers of Japan
The Meteorological Society of Japan
Architectural Institute of Japan
Japan Society of Civil Engineering

Introduction / Objectives

During last 6 years, we have been conducting many joint international and domestic researches actively using our experimental facilities and virtual database, and now we are planning to hold the 2nd international workshop to summarize the research activities for last 6 years. We have collaborated more than 22 foreign institutes in Canada, China, Taiwan, Hong Kong and so on, and 32 domestic institutes. In the 2nd international workshop, for a better understanding of structural and environmental wind engineering by exchanging and sharing of the latest information, knowledge and achievements, transdisciplinary sessions from structural and environmental fields will be provided, as well as independent general sessions from structural and environmental wind engineering.

Topics

- Transdisciplinary topics
- Full-scale simulation
- Extreme wind, downburst and tornado
- Bluff-body and dynamic characteristics
- Ventilation in buildings and urban areas
- Human thermal comfort
- Thermal/wind environment
- Energy saving of building by natural energy

Keynote Speakers

Professor G. Solari (University of Genoa, Italy)
Title: Detection, simulation, modelling and loading of thunderstorm outflows to design wind-safer and cost-efficient structures

Professor Y. Li (Hong Kong University, Hong Kong)
